Supporting UNC Men's Golf

The University of North Carolina has a long-term agreement with Nike, which provides UNC teams with shoes, apparel, equipment bags and other products. The contract, signed in 1994 and again in 1997, was extended for a period of eight more years beginning in July 2002. In addition to Nike products, the agreement provides $100,000 annually to the Chancellor's Academic Enhancement Fund for undergraduate teaching and $100,000 annually to the UNC athletic department to reward Olympic sport programs and coaches for academic and athletic excellence.

2003-04 UNC Men's Golf Guide

The 2003-04 North Carolina men's golf media guide was designed and edited by Lee Snyder, Athletic Communications Administrative Assistant, with assistance from student assistant Kate Barnhill and the Athletic Communications staff.

The front, inside front, back and inside back covers were designed by Dana Gelin. The player pictures on the front and inside front covers, pictures of this year's team and the aerial photos of Finley Golf Course on the back cover and on page 34 were photographed by Jeff Camarati. The campus pictures on the front cover and on pages 36 and 37 were photographed by Dan Sears.

Why Tar Heels?

University of North Carolina athletic teams are known as the Tar Heels because North Carolina is "The Tar Heel State."

One legend has the nickname being applied to the state's residents as long ago as the Revolutionary War. According to this story, the troops of British General Cornwallis were fording what is now known as the Tar River between Rocky Mount and Battleboro when they discovered that tar had been dumped into the stream to impede their crossing. When they finally got across the river they found their feet completely black with tar. Their observation that anyone who waded North Carolina rivers would acquire tar heels led to the nickname first being used.

Others say the nickname was acquired during the War Between the States. During one of that war's fiercest battles a column supporting North Carolina troops was driven from the field. After the battle, the North Carolinians who had successfully fought it out alone, happened to meet the regiment which had fled to safety and were greeted with the question, "Any more tar down in the Old North State, boys?"

"No, not a bit," shot back one of the North Carolina soldiers. "Old Jeff's bought it all up," he went on, referring to Jefferson Davis, President of the Confederacy.

"Is that so? What's he going to do with it?"

"He's going to put it on you'ns heels to make you stick better in the next fight."

Upon hearing of the incident, Robert E. Lee smiled and said to a fellow officer, "God bless the Tar Heel boys."

A letter found in 1991 by State Archivist David Olson lends credence to another more direct theory. A letter from Maj. Joseph Engelhard describes a fight involving men from North Carolina in which Lee was heard to have said, "There they stand as if they have tar on their heels."

The letter, dated August 24, 1864, told the tale of a battle on the outskirts of Petersburg, Va. Engelhard was elected secretary of state for North Carolina in 1876.

Ram Mascot

For nearly 70 years, North Carolina's mascot has been a ram. Since Carolina's nickname is Tar Heels, it might seem strange to have a ram as a mascot. It is. But, there is a good explanation. It's offered by Vic Huggins, Carolina's head cheerleader back in 1924.

"In 1924, school spirit was at a peak," Huggins once explained. "But something seemed to be missing. One day it hit me. Georgia had a bulldog for a mascot and State a wolf. What Carolina needed was a symbol."

Two years earlier the Tar Heels had posted a brilliant, 9-1 football record. The star of that 1922 team was a bruising fullback named Jack Merritt. Merritt was nicknamed "the battering ram" for the way he plunged into lines. It seemed natural to Huggins to link a mascot with Merritt's unusual sobriquet.

"Charlie Woollen, the athletic business manager at that time, agreed with the idea and gave us $25 to purchase a fitting mascot," said Huggins.

Rameses the First was shipped in from Texas, arriving just in time to be introduced at a pep rally before the VMI game. Complete with a monogram blanket on his back, Rameses helped make the pep rally one of the school's greatest.

Then the ram was taken to Emerson Field where Carolina was an underdog to a strong VMI team. But, for three quarters the Tar Heels battled the visitors to a scoreless tie.

Late in the fourth period Carolina's Bunn Hackney was called upon to attempt a field goal. Before taking the field he stopped to rub Rameses' head for good luck.

Seconds later Hackney's 30-yard dropkick sailed between the goalposts, giving the Tar Heels a 3-0 victory and a legendary mascot.

Tar Heels rams have traveled everywhere from New York City (for the Carolina-Notre Dame game in 1949) to Jacksonville for Carolina's Gator Bowl appearances.

School Colors

The adoption of light blue and white as UNC's colors dates back to the 19th Century. When the University reopened following the Civil War, most social activities were directed by two literary societies, the Dialectic and Philanthropic. The official color of the Di was light blue and that of the Phi white. Since society membership was compulsory for all students, the opinions and activities of these organizations were by nature of circumstances all embracing. It was the custom for all men from localities west of Chapel Hill to affiliate with the Di and generally for students from the east to become members of the Phi.

On public occasions the student officers, marshals and ball managers were chosen equally from the membership of the two societies. It had long been the custom of each society for its members to wear its color on such occasions. However, the chief marshal and chief ball manager, one from the Di and the other from the Phi, wore combination light blue and white regalia and rosettes signifying that they represented the whole student body.

Later, when intercollegiate athletics were established, the question of what to wear became a problem. Certainly, the students wanted to be associated with the University, but the school had no official colors. So it seemed only natural for the fans to adorn themselves with the same combination as that used by the chief marshals and ball managers, colors which represented not membership in a society, but a University student body.

With a successful end to the fall season, the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill men's golf team will look to carry that momentum over the winter and into the spring tournaments.

"We started a little slow, but the guys played really well after that and continued to get better," said Head Coach John Inman, in his sixth year at UNC.

The team's slow start included finishing 10th at The Bank of Tennessee at the Ridges Tournament in Jonesborough, Tenn., and then seventh at the Ping/Golfweek Preview in Hot Springs, Va. However, in the Preview, sophomore Kevin Silva from New Bedford, Mass., finished second with a one-under par 139, and senior Dustin Bray, from Asheboro, N.C., finished birdie-birdie-birdie in his last round for a 73.

Carolina is a young team that played one senior, two sophomores and two freshmen in the fall. Senior Richard Treis, 2003 ACC Champion from Baden-Baden, Germany, was out with a thumb injury sustained in the ACC Tournament last spring.

"It's going to take the guys a while to get comfortable," said Inman. "But winning our last two tournaments was a big confidence boost for them."

The tournaments Inman referred to were the Franklin Street Partners Invitational played at UNC's Finley Golf Course and the Duke Golf Classic at the Duke Golf Club.

"In both of those tournaments, it was dead even coming down the stretch, and we played just a little better than the other teams," said Inman.

Bray also took home at least a part of the individual title in both tournaments as well. In the Franklin Street Partners Invitational, he went birdie-birdie-birdie to finish his last round for the second tournament in a row. That gave him a third-round score of 69 for a 213 total and a come-from-behind tie for first. Sophomore Ted Smith, from Westlake, Ohio, tied for third with a two-under 214.

Then, in the Duke Golf Classic, Bray "blew away the field," according to Inman, shooting a nine-under total 207. That win, his seventh, made him the all-time wins leader at Carolina.

Both seniors, Bray and Treis, lead by example on and off the golf course. Inman likes Bray's attitude going into each tournament.

"When Dustin goes into a golf tournament, he goes in thinking he's supposed to win. It's not easy to have that kind of mind set.

"He has led the team ever since he's been here, and I think he'll continue to do that and draw along the younger guys."

Treis, who hasn't played since Nationals but plans to play in the spring, is the team academic advisor and makes sure his teammates are doing what they should in the classroom. Inman calls him very mature and someone who is a good model for the underclassmen.

"Richie is also one of our best players, and I look for him to continue to get better in his time here," said Inman.

In addition to Silva and Smith, the other underclassmen include juniors Matt Crenshaw of Burlington, N.C., and Doug Kingston of Bethlehem, Pa.; sophomores Alan Burnett of Charlotte, N.C., and Fernando Figueroa of San Salvador, El Salvador; and freshmen Will Dottley of Madison, Miss., and Martin Ureta of Santiago, Chile.

For the team to be successful, Inman said there needs to be consistency throughout the line-

Senior Dustin Bray, a two-time All-America and three-time ACC performer, is the winningest Tar Heel in school history with seven victories, including two last fall.

Inman, and it gives the Tar Heels an opportunity to travel out west.

The Schenkel E-Z-Go Invitational follows from March 20-21 in Statesboro, Ga. "We've never had a whole lot of success down there, but I'm always hoping," said Inman. "It's good exposure with a good field - you want to be there."

The Cleveland Golf/ASU Invitational will be played in Augusta, Ga., from April 3-4. "Augusta State has a great team," said Inman. "And it's Augusta, Ga., - that's all you have to say to a golfer."

The next week, April 10-11, the Tar Heels will go down the road to Raleigh, N.C., to play in The Courtyard by Marriott Intercollegiate. "MacGregor Downs is a great course, and it's good to play at home - the guys are happy to sleep in their own beds," said Inman.

Next up will be the ACC Championship held in New London, N.C., from April 16-18. Inman refers to the consistency again as what his team needs to be successful at the tournament.

"When you have everybody chipping in, that's when you have a good team score, and you beat the Clemson's and the Wake Forest's."

Before the Tar Heels go on to the NCAA Regionals, they will play in one last tournament before their exams. The Andrea Brotto Cavalier Classic in Charlottesville, Va., will be April 23-24.

"It will keep us fresh and get us some more competition under our belts before exams," said Inman. "Then we'll get ready for regionals and nationals."

The team will take its two fall wins and look to build on them next spring. Inman wants to see his team move to the top.

"We're ranked 10th in the country right now, and someone said to me the other day, 'That's great, you're playing well.' But I said, 'Well, I'd like to drop that zero.'

"There's no question we have the talent to do that, we just have to believe."

Franklin Street Partners Invitational

The University of North Carolina men's and women's golf teams joined forces last fall to host the Franklin Street Partners Invitational. The women have hosted this event for many years, but this was the inaugural event for the men. The 54-hole event was played October 3-5 and the men played to a par 72, 7,199-yard layout at UNC Finley Golf Course. Both the men and the women hosted nine-team fields.

The Tar Heels captured the men's team championship with an 875 total. Georgia Southern was the runner up four shots back at 879 while Kentucky finished in third place with an 894 total.

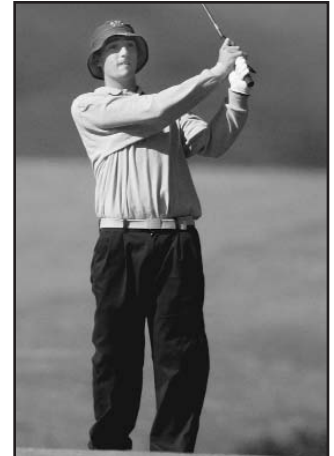

Carolina's Dustin Bray and Alabama's Lars Brovold tied for individual medalist honors as both players fired three-under-par 213 totals. Ted Smith of Carolina and Toshi Hirata of Georgia Southern tied for third place one shot back at 214 while Kentucky's John Holmes placed fifth at 216 and Carolina's Will Dottley and East Carolina's Jason Harris tied for sixth place with 218 totals.

Tar Heels, Wolfpack Join Forces to Host The Courtyard by Marriott Intercollegiate

The Courtyard by Marriott Intercollegiate, formerly The Intercollegiate and The Ping Intercollegiate, made its debut in the spring of 1990 and immediately became one of the nation's top collegiate tournaments. North Carolina and NC State join forces to host this prestigious event.

This year the 54-hole event will be played April 9-10. It will return to MacGregor Downs Country Club in Cary where it has been played 10 times previously (1990, 1992-2000). MacGregor Downs features a par 72, 6,650-yard layout. The tournament format is one with 36 holes being played on April 9 followed by 18 holes on April 10. A College Amateur will take place on April 8.

Fifteen teams will be on hand for The Courtyard by Marriott Intercollegiate this year and nine are ranked in the top 50 of the Golfweek/Sagarin Rankings entering the spring season. In addition to hosts North Carolina (ranked 10th) and NC State, the other participants include Minnesota (6), Duke (15), Wake Forest (16), Georgia Southern (26), Tennessee (29), Tulsa (30), Kansas (32), Vanderbilt (37), SMU, North Florida, Virginia, East Tennessee State and Virginia Tech.

In last year's event, played at Raleigh Country Club, a par 72, 6,782-yard layout, SMU captured the team championship with a nine-under-par 843 total. Carolina and Tulsa were the runners-up with 847 totals. Chris Noel of Tulsa captured the individual championship after firing a six-under-par 207. Tennessee's David Skinnis was the runner-up one shot back at 208 while Carolina's Richard Treis, Tulsa's David Inglis and SMU's Stephen Sparolini tied for third place with 209 totals.

Order of Merit

The Carolina Order of Merit was established in 1991 by the University of North Carolina Department of Athletics and Golf Program to honor former players, coaches, administrators and friends who have distinguished themselves in the game and for their overall contributions to the golf program at the University. The contributions of these individuals have been of paramount importance in the growth of the program at UNC and they are an integral part of the excellence of one of America's top collegiate golf programs.

The first two inductees, Jim Ferree and Harvie Ward, were inducted in 1991, Chuck Erickson and Bill Williamson were inducted in 1992, Bobby Galloway was inducted in 1993, Dot Gunnells and Ed Kenney were the inductees in 1994, John Inman was inducted in 1996, Davis Love III was inducted in 1997, Roger Perry was inducted in 2001, A.E. Finley and the Finley Foundation were inducted in 2002 and Donna Andrews was inducted in 2003. The inductions take place at the Executive Cup Golf Tournament each year during the event's annual banquet.

DONNA ANDREWS

Donna Andrews, one of Carolina's top players, now stars on the LPGA Tour. A star on Tar Heel teams, 1986-89, Andrews was selected second-team All-America in 1989. During her collegiate career, she captured one championship, the 1988 Lady Paladin Invitational. She also finished third at the 1989 NCAA Women's Championship, the best finish ever by a Carolina player in that prestigious event. Andrews was a two-time champion of the North and South Amateur, capturing that title in 1984 and 1988. She was selected in 2003 to the Atlantic Coast Conference 50th Anniversary Women's Golf Team.

Andrews, the current LPGA president, has been playing on the LPGA Tour since 1990. She has captured six LPGA championships, including the 1994 Nabisco Dinah Shore Championship. She is a two-time member of the Solheim Cup, 1994 and 1998. Andrews finished in the top three in the 1992 and 1993 U.S. Women's Open Championships, a truly remarkable accomplishment.

CHUCK ERICKSON

A very famous name in Carolina athletic history is Chuck Erickson. He served as Carolina's golf coach for 23 years from 1935 till 1961, minus three years during World War II when the school fielded no team. In that span, his teams won five conference championships and placed second and fourth in the 1953 and 1960 NCAA Tournaments. Erickson coached three All-Americans, Harvie Ward, Bill Williamson and Bill Thornton, and one NCAA champion, Ward in 1949.

Erickson was also Carolina's athletic director, 1952-1968. During his tenure, the University broke from the Southern Conference and helped form the Atlantic Coast Conference. Erickson was directly responsible for the construction of UNC's own Finley Golf Course.

A native of Oak Park, Ill., Erickson graduated from Carolina in 1931 and was a star halfback on the 1928-1930 football teams. He was a recipient of the Helms Athletic Hall of Fame Award in 1970 and was inducted into the North Carolina Sports Hall of Fame in 1992. Erickson passed away in 1977 after suffering a heart attack.

JIM FERREE

Jim Ferree played on Carolina's 1951-1953 golf teams and was the 1953 Southern Conference Champion. A native of Pine Bluff, N.C., Ferree played on the PGA Tour for 11 years, 1956-1966, and won the 1958 Vancouver Centennial. He currently stars on the Senior Tour, which he joined in 1981. He has won two tournaments on the Senior Tour - the 1986 Greater Grand Rapids Open and the 1991 Bell Atlantic Classic. In addition to his win at the Bell Atlantic Classic in 1991, he carded eight top-10 finishes.

A.E. FINLEY & THE FINLEY FOUNDATION

A.E. Finley and the Finley Foundation have been instrumental in all Tar Heel golf success with their generous and loyal support for over 50 years of the men's and women's golf programs. Finley was largely responsible for the original construction of Finley Golf Course which opened in 1949. The Finley Foundation remains an integral part of the A.E. Finley Executive Cup Golf Tournament which is an important part of the tradition of Carolina's golf program and a fixture on the schedule each year.

BOBBY GALLOWAY

Bobby Galloway was the fifth inductee into the Order of Merit. Galloway lettered for the Tar Heels in 1959 and 1960 and was captain in 1960 when Carolina won the Atlantic Coast Conference championship. That same year, Galloway was a quarterfinalist at the NCAA Championships and led the Tar Heels to a fourth-place finish.

He turned professional in 1964 but not before he won the Winston-Salem City-County Championship on four occasions. He had his best PGA Tour finish in 1965 when he placed 10th at Memphis. Galloway was the Carolinas PGA champion in 1971. He won the North Carolina Open in 1972 and the National PGA Club Pro title in 1976. Galloway was the Carolinas Professional Golfer of the Year in 1976.

In 1980, Galloway regained his amateur status and has since won 10 tournament titles. He presently resides in Chapel Hill.

DOT GUNNELLS

Dot Gunnells, one of the premier coaches in the country during her tenure, was the head coach of Carolina's women's team for 18 years, 1974-1993. Gunnells was named the NCAA National Coach of the Year in 1993. That same year, she was inducted into the National Golf Coaches Association Hall of Fame and was the recipient of the National Golf Coaches Association Gladys Palmer Award for contributions to golf outside the normal coaching responsibilities.

In 1985, Gunnells was named the ACC Coach-of-the-Year and in 1992 she was selected the Mid-Atlantic/East Region Coach-of-the-Year. Her teams carded 11 national top 25 finishes, placed eighth at the NCAA Championships three times (1989, '92 and '93) and won the ACC Championship in 1992. She also coached five All-Americans.

JOHN INMAN

One of Carolina's greatest golfers, John Inman won the NCAA Championship in 1984 at Bear Creek Golf World in Houston, Texas. He broke Ben Crenshaw's NCAA record with a 17-under-par score which stood in the record books for 16 years. Inman was the second Tar Heel to win the NCAA Individual Championship, the first being Harvie Ward in 1949. Inman won the 1984 Fred Haskins Award as the National Player-of-the-Year. He was a member of the World Amateur Team that same year and won the '84 Western Amateur. He was a three-time All-America (1982-84) and a three-time All-ACC performer (1982-84) during his four-year career (1981-84) as a Tar Heel. Inman captured five collegiate titles. Besides his NCAA title, he won the '83 Augusta College Invitational, '82 ACC Tournament, '82 Forest Hills Invitational and '81 Methodist Invitational.

He turned professional in 1985 and played on the PGA Tour for 12 years (1987-1998). While playing on the PGA Tour he won the 1987 Provident Classic and the 1993 Buick Southern Open. A native of Greensboro, N.C., Inman is in his sixth year as head coach of the Tar Heels and has already led Carolina to a tie for ninth place and two 10th-place NCAA finishes.

ED KENNEY

Ed Kenney served as the head professional at Finley Golf Course and also coached the men's team during 27 years with the University. He was the head pro at Finley and manager of the pro shop from 1949, the year the course opened, until he retired in 1976.

Kenney also was the men's golf coach for 12 years, 1961-1972. His teams won over 71 percent of their matches and finished 12th in the 1962 NCAA Championship. His 1965 team captured the ACC Championship. Kenney also coached three ACC individual champions.

Kenney passed away in 2001 and a golf team award has been established in his honor. It encompasses a player's attitude, academic and athletic contributions. Junior Richard Treis was presented the Ed Kenney Award in 2003.

HARVIE WARD

One of the most celebrated golfers in Carolina's history is Harvie Ward. A member of the Tar Heel 1947-1950 golf teams, he was Carolina's first All-America in 1949 and was the NCAA Champion that same year, defeating Oklahoma's Bo Winner, LSU's Gardner Dickinson and Notre Dame's Tommy Veech before dispatching Texas' Morris Williams Jr. in the 36-hole final, 5 and 4. However, he gained national prominence a year earlier when he won the 1948 North and South Amateur. A virtual no-name nationally when he entered the tournament, he sent Arnold Palmer and former U.S. Amateur Champion Dick Chapman home before edging international star

Frank Stranahan in the 36-hole final, 1-up. Crowds on the famed Pinehurst #2 fairways were estimated that day upwards of 2,000 as fraternity brothers, teammates, coeds and others formed a caravan from Chapel Hill to Pinehurst to cheer the happy-go-lucky Ward on to victory.

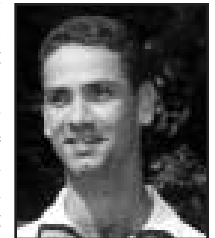

Ward was the 1950 Southern Conference Champion and following graduation he won the 1952 British Amateur, the 1954 Canadian Amateur and the 1955 and 1956 U.S. Amateurs.

A native of Tarboro, N.C., Ward spent much of his life as a businessman and golf pro in California and is now semi-retired and living in Pinehurst. He still instructs some golfers, including Carolina junior Dustin Bray.

BILL WILLIAMSON

Bill Williamson played on Carolina's 1951-1953 teams. He had an outstanding season his senior year as he was the runner-up in the NCAA Tournament in 1953. He led the team to a second-place finish that year, the Tar Heels' first top 20 finish, and was named to the All-America team, becoming Carolina's second All-America in history.

Williamson is a former chairman of Carolina's Executive Cup Golf Tournament and is an active booster of the Tar Heel golf program. A businessman who resides in Charlotte, Williamson was co-chairman of the fundraising campaign for the recent refurbishing of Finley Golf Course.

DAVIS LOVE III

One of Carolina's greatest golfers, Davis Love III, now stars on the PGA Tour. As a Tar Heel, Love was a three-time All-America and three-time All-ACC performer (1983-85). He was the ACC Champion in 1984, one of seven individual titles he captured during his three year career as he led the Tar Heels to 17 team championships. Love was selected to the 1985 Walker Cup team.

Love was an immediate star on the PGA Tour as he was named the 1986 PGA Rookie of the Year. Since then he has posted 18 PGA victories including the '97 PGA Championship and the '95 World Cup individual title. Love has been a five-time member of the World Cup Team (1992-95, 1997), a five-time member of the Ryder Cup Team (1993, 1995, 1997, 1999, 2002) and a five-time member of The Presidents Cup (1994, 1996, 1998, 2000, 2003).

ROGER PERRY

Roger Perry is a great friend and supporter of the Carolina golf program and was inducted into the Order of Merit in 2001. Perry served as chairman of Carolina's Executive Cup Golf Tournament for three years and was co-chairman of the fundraising campaign for the recent $10 million redesigning and construction of Finley Golf Course and the Chapman Center.

Perry, a real estate developer and president of East West Partners Management Company, Inc. in Chapel Hill, has served on numerous local and national fundraising committees and charities.

Perry is a 1971 graduate from Carolina and presently resides in Raleigh.

A.E. Finley Executive Cup

The A. E. Finley Executive Cup remains an important part of the tradition of the Carolina golf program and a fixture on the schedule each year.

Formerly the Carolina Executive Cup, this tournament now carries a name to recognize an individual who has meant so much to Tar Heel Golf. In addition to providing funds for the original construction of the golf course and facilities, his estate has donated money for the annual trophy given to the tournament winners and also for the banquet held after the competition.

This annual tournament is an opportunity for supporters of Carolina golf to play with past and present Carolina golfers, coaches and University officials. This tournament is more than just a fundraiser, for it is a homecoming for former players to renew old acquaintances and establish new friendships.

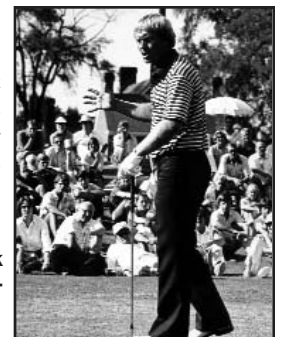

The A. E. Finley Executive Cup, which had its start in 1976, provides vital funds for an endowment from which both golf teams may draw additional revenue for travel expenses. Since the men's and women's teams play national schedules, which take them all across the country to face tough competition, the A. E. Finley Executive Cup is pivotal in helping maintain the Tar Heel program at the top of collegiate golf.

The appearances of golfing legend Jack Nicklaus in the 1980, '81 and '83 events are highlights of the tournament's history, as he thrilled all spectators and contestants with a clinic he conducted after each tournament.

At the 1997 event which was held at UNC's Finley Golf Course, Davis Love III was inducted into Carolina's Order of Merit for all of his contributions to the Carolina Golf Program.

The inaugural Executive Cup in 1976 was played at the Country Club of North Carolina in Pinehurst, N.C. The tournament was moved to Grandfather Mountain a year later and was played there for one year (1977) before returning to the Country Club of North Carolina for two more years (1978-79). Beginning in 1980 it was played at UNC's Finley Golf Course and continued to be played there through 1990. After a four-year stint at the Governors Club (1991-94), the event returned to Finley Golf Course.

Golfing legend Jack Nicklaus' clinics were a highlight of past Executive Cups.
